Letter From the Publishers

July 1, 2026

Dear Book Lover,

Every title in the GladEye Press catalog is sure to be a welcome addition to any collection! Since 2013 we've been fiercely independent publishers of books that inform, entertain, enlighten, and enhance the literary experience—whether it is a cozy mystery, a high fantasy written from an ancient dragon's perspective, historical fiction, memoirs, or novels that tackle difficult topics such as civil and reproductive rights, the impacts of climate change, or just an excellently written novel we love.

Literary love is the key. GladEye Press is a traditional publisher. We aren't for hire. We only invest in authors and books we believe in. We don't think authors should pay to be published; they've already paid in inspiration, work, and skill. If they haven't done that, they probably aren't for us.

Authors aren't the only ones we deeply appreciate. We adore bookstores! If we couldn't be writers, editors, and publishers, we would be booksellers. All of our titles are distributed through Ingram with full wholesale discounts, and are returnable. Additionally, we support indie bookstores by NOT publishing e-book versions of the majority of our titles until at least six months after print publication.

We're extremely proud of our current front and back lists—there are some excellent titles there. We're also very excited for the outstanding titles coming out later in the summer and into the fall.

Best wishes for great reading and success over the summer. May the breezes be cool and the storylines hot!

Warm Regards,
Jeff Bolkan & Sharleen Nelson

LITERARY FICTION

“Crucial historical novel of American race, identity, and the cost of belonging.”
BOOKLIFE “Editor’s Pick”

Black & Tan Fantasy $22.95

By RANDALL LUCE

ISBN: 978-1-951289-23-2

EPUB: 978-1-951289-31-7, $9.99

Deep in the segregated Mississippi Delta racial identities, culture, and attitudes collide and shift during the early days of the turbulent, and often violent, nascent civil rights movement in this taut tale of two men—one White, one Black—who journey through one of the most fraught and disturbing periods of US history. With voting rights back in the news, Black & Tan Fantasy strikes a familiar chord.

“Compelling novel of legacy, loyalty, betrayal, and Ireland’s Brian Boru.”
BOOKLIFE “Editor’s Pick”

Far Side of Revenge $21.95

By ANNE L. DEAN

ISBN: 978-1-951289-22-5

EPUB: 978-1-951289-27-0, $9.99

In this this sweeping historical novel, the life of Brian Boru is traced from his childhood as the youngest son of a deposed clan king. Bloody medieval battles, political marriages, infidelity, and love forge the complex man who must challenge his own brother for the leadership of the clan and a goal of unifying the revenge-seeking factions of Ireland and driving out the invading Norsemen.

CLIMATE FICTION

“... world-threatening issues [such] as global warming play a central part in each of this book’s 15 tautly written stories. Perceptive tales that boast memorable characters and a potent, sweeping message.” —Kirkus “GET IT” Review

MEMOIRS, etc.

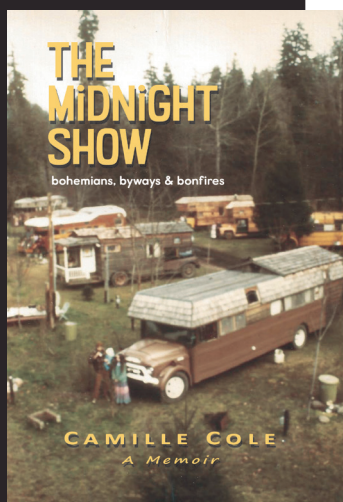

TEACHING, LEARNING & CULTURE SHOCK IN THE ALASKAN BUSH

Teaching in Alaska: What I Learned in the Bush $17.95

By JULIE BOLKAN

ISBN: 978-0991193172

Following the passage of the Molly Hootch Act mandating that every village have a public high school, Alaska scrambled to erect buildings and recruit teachers from the lower 48. Among the first outsiders to live and work with the Yup'ik in their small villages, the author chronicles how she survived the culture clashes, isolation, weather, and her struggles with honey buckets—a candid and often funny account of one gussok woman's 12 years in the Alaskan bush.

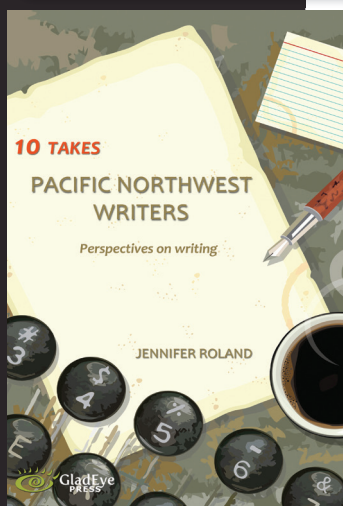

YOU CAN ALMOST SMELL THE PATCHOULI OIL!

The Midnight Show—bohemians, byways & bonfires $19.95

By CAMILLE COLE

ISBN: 978-1951289041

During the early days of Oregon's famous Country Fair, the Midnight Show was more than a magical conduit for pranksters and sparkles and fandangle; tofu and patchouli and drum circles; sword swallowers, fire-eaters, and magicians; or even a wedding venue. It was a stage shared by icons of the counterculture, lovers, children and family, and those finding their way through.

COMING SOON

HOLY HORROR COMING 2026

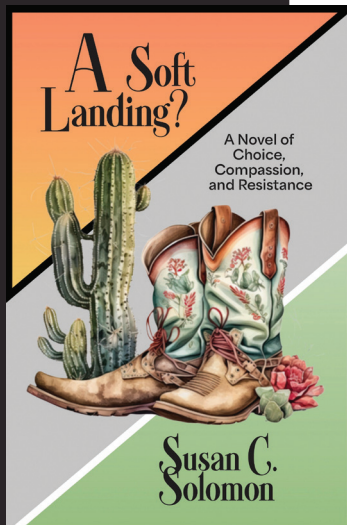

The Parable of Sam

By JASON A. KILGORE

What if the biblical stories in Judges 13–16 were set in modern times? The Old Testament wasn't all gardens, apples, and manna from heaven. When Sam draws upon his supernatural strength to save his friend from being mauled by a lion, his behavior begins to change, not for the better. Kilgore writes a gripping, terrifying, and all too believable tale of vengeance in this modern tale of horror torn from the pages of the Old Testament.

PRICING/DISTRIBUTION

GladEye Press is proud of its connection to the Pacific Northwest. The majority of our authors also call this beautiful region their home. Something about the rain, fog, coastlines, mountains, high deserts, and vast expanses elicits the desire to write.

Our books are distributed nationally, and internationally by Ingram at full wholesale discounts and, of course, are returnable, and can be stocked or ordered by nearly any bookstore on Earth. Stocking quality books from independent presses such as ours can be a huge competitive advantage for indie bookstores and can help support deserving authors.

ABOUT US

GladEye Press authors are an active group and justifiably proud of their books. Most are willing and able to travel throughout the region for signings and other events in bookstores. Simply contact us (jvbolkan@gladeyepress.com) and we can put you in touch with one (or many!) of our charming and charismatic writers.

As a small press, GladEye doesn't have the luxury of simply putting our titles up for order and waiting for customers and bookstores to come to us. No business can really "go it alone"—we are no exception. We've been members and exhibitors with the Pacific Northwest Booksellers Association. We also belong to the Independent Book Publishers Association. We, and our authors, regularly support literary events and organizations throughout the region, including the Florence Festival of Books, Literary Arts/Portland Bookfest, and dozens of smaller festival, fairs, and events.

We depend and appreciate our fellow independents that keep high quality and engaging literature in front of the reading public. Most of all, we are in awe of the many authors that have chosen us to polish and present their stories to the world.
